OCTOBER 2019

FROM THE PASTOR

Calling all Pumpkins!!

As many of you know, our three youngest grandchildren spent some time in Grafton this summer. To my great joy they connected with a few kids in town and had a fantastic time. Since obeying a set curfew was always one of the hallmarks of our parenting when our sons were young, with our grandkids making Grafton unsafe, I decided it would be wise if they too would get the opportunity to obey a curfew. However, being a grandma and all, I tried to be a bit more generous and kind in my approach and so I gave them a "Pumpkin time". Yes, you may recall Cinderella's magic carriage turning into a pumpkin at midnight! With supper at 6:00 pm at our house, that became "Pumpkin time" – thereafter the kids would turn into pumpkins or at least Oma would be very unhappy ☹️☹️☹️. As the kids left the house with the door flying open and shut, you could hear my voice: "Pumpkin time is at 6:00 – not 6:01, guys!" Usually one of them would respond with: "We will be back at 6:02!" (They usually were home by 5:59pm!)

Above you see the image Being a Christian is like being a pumpkin! You might be well familiar with the saying. Still, let's look at it a bit closer.

God picks you from the patch and brings you in.

Or, in the words of John 15:16, “You did not choose me but I chose you”. I realize that even those of us who grew up in a Lutheran pumpkin patch with good soil, loving care and few weeds, at time think that we make a decision for God or that we decide to follow Jesus. I also realize that almost everyone who says and thinks that is entirely serious, sincere and has no desire but to be faithful! There is no reason to put people down for thinking that we frail humans can make a decision for God and His incarnate Son in particular. But this “Jesus and me” is not our idea, friends. Seeing the light of Christ, responding when God’s Word touches us through worship, the actions of others, and... and... and... is God’s doing. God decided to reach out to us with His powerful Spirit, calling us in ways we often do not understand and which at times can be scary. If somebody would say to us: Well, it is Tuesday and I just decided today is the day I am going to fall in love, we would have serious concerns about that person and rightfully so. It is beyond our ability to fall in love with God as well – God has long fallen in love with us and like a giddy teenager, we respond!!!

Then God washes the dirt off of you or, speaking with 2 Corinthians 5:17 “Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation. The old has passed away; behold, the new has come.” Just as the Apostle Paul’s view of Christ was dramatically transformed on the road to Damascus, so he knows all people are transformed by the love of Christ. Paul’s words have surely been needed in every time and culture and so it is not any different today. We are obsessed with externals -- with youth and beauty, accomplishments and credentials, productivity and profit.

We are constantly tempted to judge our own worth and that of others according to human standards. We are tempted to view worldly success as a sign of God’s favor, and conversely, think of weakness and suffering as a sign of God’s absence or even God’s punishment. Paul reminds us that human standards do not count in God’s eyes. The scandal of the cross is that God chooses vulnerability, weakness, suffering, and death in order to bring new life. And you and I are connected to this Christ through our Baptism when the assurance came: I have called you by name, you are mine.

God opens you up and scoops out all the yucky stuff. He removes the seeds of doubt, greed, etc. This connects with St. Paul’s words in Romans 6:6, “We know that our old self was crucified with him in order that the body of sin might be brought to nothing, so that we would no longer be enslaved to sin.”

Paul is actually speaking of Baptism here. The image is radical, though. It speaks not only of having a little water getting your head wet. In Baptism we die, we participate in the crucifixion, death and burial with our Lord. Ouch. It is almost too harsh to think of that at the sight of a small child held over the font! Yet, in those waters flows freedom from the power of sin. God washes off the yucky stuff. Yes, we know how to get ourselves yucky again and again, make no mistake about it. But, by sharing in Christ’s death and resurrection, sharing therefore in his destiny, we can consider ourselves dead in regard to sin and alive to God. Paul exhorts us to become what we are— persons who share the life of the new age with Christ. Seeking forgiveness and being renewed each and every day.

Then God carves you a new smiling face – as shown in Psalm 71:23: “My lips will shout for joy, when I sing praises to you; my soul also, which you have redeemed.” I am not good at all at carving pumpkins. Whether I carefully draw first or cut immediately, my imagination and creativity always fail. The Psalms are famous for showing us that it is quite alright to address

God with smiling faces, as well as tears running down our cheeks, or even lifting our fist in the air. If you think you are the first one to have an argument with God, think again. And yet, I love the Psalms because even after the harshest accusations, the most agitated arguments against any and all situations God seemingly allows without paying close attention to the distress of his people, the Psalmist ends up with a grateful word and a smile. Mind you: nobody here dismisses pain, frustration or suffering – all that is and remains very real, for the Psalm writers thousands of years ago and for all of us today. Yet, God always, always, and I mean always, gives us reason to rejoice. He is with us when we can only feel his absence. He carries us when we cannot walk the path of tragedy any longer. The joy we receive from him does not dismiss the cold reality of life – but it always is covered in God’s amazing grace. Perhaps that is why we see those who suffer greatly still with a smile on their faces?

Our pumpkin is almost finished! And he puts a light inside you to shine for all the world to see. Oh, we know about that: Let your light so shine before others that they may see your good works and glorify your Father in heaven. Matthew 5:16. These words we hear at every Baptism. They call us to discipleship. They encourage, yes, command us, to make sure we do not sit back but are constantly on the move, sharing the love of Christ in word and deed with the world around us. We live these words when we comfort the weary, pay attention to the least and the lonely and never forget to declare the mighty works of God. We reflect the light of Christ. We get the flame from him.

One of the first songs I learned in America was “Pass it On” --- It only takes a spark to get a fire going, and soon all those around, can warm up in its glowing. That’s how it is with God’s love, once you’ve experienced it, you spread his love, to ev’ryone, you want to pass it on.” Yes, we are the light of the world because we bask in the One who is Light to everything.

A lit orange pumpkin is delightful, whether carefully carved by a master carver or haltingly with lots of flaws as the ones I have set out. As you look at the pumpkins galore all over our area over the next few weeks and perhaps use them to decorate your home and yard or pull out those stored-away carving sets for the grandkids, just remember: for those of us who are followers of Christ, disciples, it always is Pumpkin time – six o’clock or not! PZ+

STEWARDSHIP MUSINGS

During Confirmation class last week, by way of discussing the Third Commandment, I asked the kids how many hours we have in one week. It took a while but eventually they settled on "168". We then noted with a good amount of surprise how many (how few!) of those hours most of us dedicate to "prayer, praise and thanksgiving". As you can image, the realization was not pride-inducing. Most of us do not tithe the time we are given – plainly: most of us do not dedicate 16.8 hours each week to our Creator God. We are simply too busy for that!

Yet, we do not have all the time in the world. We are mortals. This earthly journey will come to an end for all of us, sooner or later. Most of us, at the very end of life, will wonder how we spent those precious hours that were given to us. I presume the answer will be a combination of gladness, regret and satisfaction.

In hopes that we will spend eternity with God, the question then really is why we don't want any 'practice time'? Conversing with God, singing his praises, bringing our concerns to him, being in the community with others who likewise are cared for by God? How much of the time granted to us do we receive with thanksgiving and return with the same attitude? I am always guilty as charged when I pose that question to myself. Sure, I am in worship every Sunday, even when I am on vacation. I pray. I read Scripture - but often to prepare my work rather than to be steeped in it and grow in faith. There goes my pride right out of the window.

Stewardship involves time - time received and time returned. Whether that is in prayer, worship, works of love toward our neighbor or in whatever ways we are encouraged or confronted with using well what has been given us. I know I am ready for some improvement. I think Emmanuel Lutheran, as a community, is ready for some improvement. We have the tendency to meet on the least common denominator when it comes to giving of our time, my friends, and our worship commitment very often is less than what God has in mind (check in with God's Word on that – don't take my word for it!!).

We don't live by the Law but by the Gospel, so don't worry about those exact 16.8 hours per week. Nevertheless, ask God to help you re-commit to return some of the incredible, gracious gift of time granted to you. Just think, without that gift we wouldn't be here and neither would those we love so much. We have been blessed. We have been graced. We have been treated like the most beloved children of God that we are. I think that somehow calls for a bit of time in prayer, praise and thanksgiving. Don't you??? PZ+

Our Condolences to Dorothy Mensch on the passing of her brother, Richard Schmidt.

Did You Know

October is Reformation month, of course. Most of us know something about this world-changing event in the 16th century and most of us do not confuse Martin Luther with Martin Luther King, Jr. any more – thanks to the huge celebrations two years ago on the 500th anniversary of the Reformation. Likewise, it is my hope that for us Lutherans the 31st of October is not merely Halloween. Here is a little refresher course for those who love details. PZ+

Martin Luther issued the “Disputation of Martin Luther on the Power and Efficacy of Indulgences” that became known as his “95 Theses” in Wittenberg on Oct. 31, 1517.

1. Thanks to the invention of the Printing Press, Luther’s words and actions “went viral”. Martin Luther and his allies used the new media of the day — pamphlets, ballads and woodcuts — and circulated them through social networks to promote their message.
2. Following the practice of naming a “heresy” after its leader, the name “Lutheran” originated as a derogatory term used by Johann Eck during the Leipzig Debate in July 1519. Rather than “Lutheran,” Martin Luther preferred to describe the reformation as “evangelical,” which is derived from the Greek word meaning “good news.”
3. Generally speaking Lutheran teaching can be summed up by “The Solas”: Scripture Alone, Christ Alone, Grace Alone, and Faith Alone.

4. The split between the Lutherans and the Roman Catholics began with the Edict of Worms in 1521, which officially excommunicated Luther and all of his followers.
5. Luther’s Small Catechism was published in 1529 for the teaching of children at home by their parents. The Large Catechism consisted of works addressed particularly to clergy to aid them in teaching their congregations.
6. The Book of Concord or “Concordia” (1580) contains documents that explain what Lutherans believe. It includes the three creeds of the ancient church and Reformation writings such as Luther’s Small and Large Catechisms, and the Formula of Concord.
7. Composer Johann Sebastian Bach, a devout Lutheran, is credited with 1,126 musical works listed in the complete Bach catalog. He wrote about 200 cantatas, including at least two for each Sunday and holy day in the Lutheran church year. He signed his master pieces with Soli Deo Gloria – To God Alone the Glory.
8. Lutherans believe in “Salvation by grace through faith” — that salvation comes by grace through faith alone, not by works.
9. Philipp Melancthon (1497 — 1560), was one of the primary founders of Lutheranism. Born Philipp Schwartzertdt, he translated his name to its Greek form: Melancthon. He made the distinction between Law and Gospel the central formula for Lutheran evangelical insight.
10. During the 16th century, Lutheranism spread through all of Scandinavia as the monarchs of Denmark-Norway (also Iceland) and Sweden (also Finland) adopted Lutheranism.
11. The first Lutheran worship service in North America is believed to have taken place in what is now known as Manitoba on Jan. 23, 1620.

12. Massive immigration from traditionally Lutheran countries to the United States between 1840 and 1875 resulted in 58 Lutheran synods being formed.
13. The first Lutheran pastor to be ordained in the United States was German-born Justus Falckner on Nov. 24, 1703.
14. German Lutheran Pastor Henry Muhlenberg was sent to North America as a missionary upon the request of Pennsylvania colonists. He is considered the patriarch of American Lutheranism.
15. As late as the 19th century, Lutherans in the United States still looked to their European homelands to supply pastors and worship materials.
16. According to Luther, every baptized person is a "born-again" Christian. Therefore, Luther told his people to start living that way!
17. Luther often said justification involves the pronouncement of God, declaring the sinner righteous. But more frequently he compared justification to a marriage. We receive all that Christ has in a marriage, and having his love and righteousness qualifies us for salvation and makes us more loving in faith.
18. We cannot believe on our own, Luther said, it takes God's Holy Spirit to give us faith.
19. Good works transpire without our willing them, like a good tree cannot help but bear good fruit. Faith is such a busy thing, Luther added, that it is impossible for the faithful person not to be doing good works.
20. Luther called the church 'hospital for sinners' - "the church is only for sick people like us".
21. Although Luther almost always spoke to God as male, at times he referred to God as 'mother', emphasizing the fullness of God's care
22. Luther taught that the non-Christians at time act more Christ-like than believers
23. At times Luther referred to the Trinity as the mind, intellect and will of God.

24. Luther was open to maintaining the papacy if the Pope would acknowledge that sinners have free forgiveness without works and submit fully to Scripture alone.
