Loretta has been interested in dolls from a very young age. She began officially collecting dolls when she began her first teaching job in Red Cloud, Nebraska. Loretta's collection has grown to several hundred dolls. Her presentation will focus on the different materials that dolls have been made with throughout history. She will share a few stories about several of the dolls in her collection, and she promises to bring as many dolls and doll collectibles as her Jeep will hold (Pastor will have to drive his own car because she knows he won't fit.)
